Hi there, people of Design

Milano Design Week, the most anticipated event of the year, returns with fresh energy and visionary narratives. The 63rd edition of Salone del Mobile promises to unveil innovative products, bold trends, and groundbreaking ideas that redefine work and lifestyle for tomorrow.

Following the Salone, Archiproducts takes center stage with a dynamic, multichannel campaign set to traverse every corner of Milano, reaching the design community in all the key MDW hotspots.

This guide remains your indispensable passport to navigating an incredible program of stands, events, installations, and special appointments at both Salone and Fuorisalone. Developed in collaboration with over a thousand brand partners, it stands as the best Milano Design Week Guide ever created – for this reason, we have named it La Guida.

For the first time, on the cover you can see the faces of 10 visionary designers and extraordinary protagonists of our spaces, chosen to celebrate 25 years – 25 years of design, ideas, research, and creativity. In the special central insert of our guide, you'll find them all, along with a brief yet unmissable dialogue we had with them about Salone, the city, and design.

We are also key players at the heart of Rho Fiera station, with an extensive Out of Home Campaign—a dedicated space where brands welcome and guide visitors at the entrance of the Fiera.

At Archiproducts Milano, located at Via Tortona 31, our design explorations continue under the curatorship of Studioepepe. After the Terra and Aqua editions, we proudly introduce "Aria. A medium for connection"—a concept that celebrates air as the element that connects and gives shape to things.

We are excited to unveil a unique, air-inspired experience in partnership with Samsung, the global leader in technological innovation. Samsung supports Aria with its exclusive WindFree™ technology, seamlessly blending innovation and design.

We can also talk about our Trade Program, our project for retailers, and the incredible innovations that we will soon launch on our platform, driven by our AI-first strategy.

Architects, designers, brands, and design professionals, we warmly invite you to our stand at Salone del Mobile.Milano, Corso Italia S22, after Halls 5-7.

Welcome, people of Design – have a fantastic Milano Design Week. For us, it will be a special edition, and we are excited to celebrate it with you!

Throught Milano, at the fair

The guide is your go-to resource to discover the Archiproductions Design Selection—the best way to map out your Design Journey and make the most of your time in Milano.

Look for the yellow icons, which highlight the finest in international design on show at Salone del Mobile.Milano and Fuorisalone. At the fair, the small icons lead you straight to Archiproductions member brands, while tall icons mark the best Design and Architecture events and brands throughout Milano.

Get inspired by the latest in quality, innovation, and technology, and create your personal Milano Design Experience!

The global source for Architecture and Design

With over one million products, more than 3,500 Brand partners, and 3.7 million registered users, Archiproductions is the benchmark in the Design industry worldwide.

Every day, thousands of Architects, Designers, and private users from all over the world choose Archiproductions to find inspiration, search catalogs, and discover design solutions of the most important international Brands. Archiproductions works with all of them: thinking as an industry, living as a community.

YEARS

25 years of Design

This year is a special one. A milestone. A celebration of 25 years of Archiproducts and, more importantly, 25 years of design that has transformed the way we live, think, and create. For a quarter of a century, we have been at the heart of a global conversation on architecture and design, witnessing the rise of new movements, the evolution of technologies and materials, and the ideas that continue to redefine our world.

To mark this occasion, we unveil a special logo—an ever-evolving form, built from distinct pieces and defining moments, yet already poised to take on new shapes, new faces, new stories, and new protagonists. A sign in motion, embodying the dynamism of design itself.

For the milestone edition of this Guide, we are celebrating not just our journey, but the visionaries who have redefined contemporary design and will drive its next era. We have chosen 10 extraordinary minds—ten leading figures whose work has set new paradigms and continues to push the boundaries of creativity.

Piero Lissoni, Philippe Starck, Patricia Urquiola, Formafantasma, Faye Toogood, Vincent Van Duysen, Sabine Marcelis, and Neri & Hu come together in this issue. Their faces personalize our cover for the first time ever, embodying the spirit of this anniversary.

We asked them to share a glimpse of their MDW—what they unveil at Salone 2025, their favorite places in Milan, and their thoughts on AI, and the design of the past 25 years. Their responses, at times deeply personal, at times strikingly aligned, reveal what fuels the creative process today and what will drive design into the future.

To work alongside such talent every day is both a privilege and a challenge—one that reinforces our mission as a global platform for architecture and design. As we step into the next 25 years, we do so with the same passion that has brought us here: championing ideas, empowering creativity, and fostering collaboration in design and digital innovation together.

What's new at Salone 2025

We present The Cassina Perspective in the Cassina showroom, featuring a new setup and new products that further explore the brand's vision for contemporary living. We also showcase an exhibition curated by Formafantasma to celebrate the 60th anniversary of Le Corbusier. Additionally, we present the new collections for Luis Vuitton, Loewe, Duravit, Moroso, Kartell, cc-tapis, Cimento, and Glas Italia.

Must-see events and favorite city places

Recommended events include Casa Brera, a new hotel we designed in the heart of Milano, housed in an historical building by Lingeri from the 1950s. It has just opened and is a special place to connect. The Cassina showroom, one of the first monobrand design stores in Milano, is one of the pioneers contributing to Fuorisalone. We worked on a special installation for Elle Décor Italia to celebrate its 35th anniversary at Palazzo Bovara.

One of my special places in Milano is Pasticceria Sissy: my favorite breakfast spot. Both the coffee and the small pastries and cakes are exceptional. Their small, simple garden is wonderful.

Design as a driving force of change

Design is a metamorphosis, adapting to society, technology, and nature. I think one of the most interesting aspects of design today is its dynamic relationship with time. The past informs us, the present challenges us, and the future pulls us forward. Design is a dialogue between these layers of time. It does not simply react to change; it anticipates and influences it.

AI in Design

I see AI as a kind of dialogue partner—it can challenge us, push us toward unexpected directions, and help optimize processes. But AI is not creativity. It doesn't have intuition, sensibility, or that spark that comes from experience and emotion. It works with what exists—it doesn't dream, it doesn't reflect. When it attempts to be original, it lacks critical analysis, selection, and empathy.

What should not be missing

I can tell you what helps me focus on my work: books, a tablet, a computer, a phone, paper, drawing materials, material samples, prototypes, and a cup of green tea.

Three words to describe design in the past 25 years

Complexity, dialogue, polycentric. Design is never static, the awareness that nothing is truly perfect or permanent is essential. The awareness that nothing is truly perfect or permanent is essential.

What's new at Salone 2025

As every year, we work on multiple fronts. There are a number of new products for various brands such as Living Divani, Kartell, Boffi, Alpi, Porro, and Ginarte. Additionally, we handle both on-site and off-site installations, including a special project or Sanlorenzo at the University of Milano

Must-see events and favorite city places

I would say all of Milano is a must-see during Milano Design Week! When it comes to my favorite places, I love wandering around my neighborhood, Brera. To me, Brera feels like a village within the city—not just a district, but a real community. It's rich in culture, home to museums and historical landmarks like the Accademia delle Belle Arti, the Brera Art Gallery, the Braidense Library, and the Botanical Garden. And then there's the market on Via San Marco, where you encounter an extraordinary mix of people. Every Monday and Thursday, I buy flowers there—both for my studio and for home.

Design as a driving force of change

Design is an extraordinary discipline—a perfect blend of rational models and an almost anarchic ability to reshape languages. Anarchy is one of the key ingredients in this mix because it offers a different perspective, and that's what truly makes the difference.

AI in Design

AI is a tool. The mistake we've made in the past was treating software as the end goal rather than just an instrument. The same applies to artificial intelligence—right now, we don't fully understand it, but we are trying to figure out what it will become. If we consider AI as a tool, it will be like any other object we use to create something new. But if we treat it as an end in itself, that's where things could go terribly wrong.

An object you have designed that holds a special place in your heart

I feel particularly attached to the projects that didn't turn out as expected because, to me, they have serious flaws. I like to think that I could have kept improving them, but in the end, things took a different path.

Distractions to break free from

I've always felt a deep connection to this world since childhood—drawing, building model airplanes... I don't feel the need to separate my profession from my life. I don't need to eliminate “distractions” because everything around me can be a source of inspiration for my work.

Philippe Starck

What's new at Salone 2025

Milano is and always will be the capital of creativity. This year, I present new creations with some of my long-standing friends and editors Alessi, Driade, Flos, Glas Italia, and Kartell. Every time I design a new model for them, it feels like I am preparing Christmas surprises.

Must-see events and favorite city places

For Fuorisalone, I imagined an installation in the Orto Botanico in Brera. This is a political installation oscillating between reality and dystopia that anticipates the prospect of the next world conflict.

When I was a young man in Milano, the Triennale was a great revelation for me. I was absolutely fascinated by the building, which lit up my head, and it still does today.

Design as a driving force of change

Design cannot create life, nor save it, but if it is done honestly and respects certain parameters, it can try to improve it, in the service of the community. Design must be absolutely timeless. For that, the first crucial parameter is heritage, which has become a modern word in regard to ecological urgencies. The second one is longevity through timeless design, so it does not become obsolete or trendy, and the use of the minimum of the highest quality materials, such as eco-friendly, bio-sourced, recycled, recyclable materials.

AI in Design

Artificial intelligence, as per its name, is artificial. It doesn't exist; it is speed. Every second, it changes, in terms of power, in terms of speed, in terms of knowledge. What we can say in the current state of things is that. What we can say in the current state of things is that AI is a fantastic tool, because it can save time, it can connect the dots. Yet creation is still the prerogative of the human subconscious. AI is not the great creator that we are. But tomorrow, who knows?

Distractions to break free from

I have no distractions, and I live completely in autarky, far away from everything. My wife and daughter are my only contacts with the outside world. We don't go to exhibitions, we don't go to museums, we don't watch TV or read newspapers, but we read very good literature before we fall asleep. Recently though, thanks to a dear friend and surf Guru Garrett McNamara, I jet surfed one of the biggest waves in Nazaré and I can say it did distract me from everything.

Three words to describe design in the past 25 years

After 30 years of formalism and fashionable design, the essence of design is to reinvent non-production and take on the big challenges that are ecological, social or political.

What's new at Salone 2025

I'm launching a new furniture collection with Tacchini, "Bread and Butter"—the inspiration and the initial maquettes for this collection including a modular sofa and a series of wooden tables. They are all presented in Tacchini's new showroom in Brera. On the other side of Milano, at Villa Alova, I also present "Rose". Inspired by my English garden, for Japanese ceramics manufacturer, Noritake, I have hand painted a series of pieces selected from Noritake's exquisite archive whilst in Japan earlier this year. These unique pieces mark the start of a collaboration launching next Salone 2026.

Must-see events and favorite city places

The first thing I do is get in a cab and head over to the Triennale. It is one of my favorite cultural institutions in the world and always gives me huge inspiration. Someone once took me to the igloo and mushrooms homes designed by the engineer Mario Cavallè in the 1940s. They are a wonderful surprise.

An object you have designed to date that holds a special place in your heart

The Roly-Poly Chair. It was designed at a significant moment in my life when I was pregnant with my first child and marked a shift in my geometry to softer, rounder forms. It was the moment when I truly connected to what it means to be a woman in design.

Design as a driving force of change

Is it enough to talk about form and function, or beauty and utility these days? I don't think so. I think designers now have a responsibility to consider humans, the environment, and the world. As designers, we have to dream of new possibilities and new experiences—to go into unfamiliar territories, deliberately putting ourselves at risk to find something new. Design currently touches every single aspect of our lives - every single thing we eat, see or do has involved design. Design today should evoke emotion.

AI in Design

AI will certainly be able to design great products, but the introduction of AI drives me, as a designer, to want to bring more of the human touch to the design and manufacturing process. I believe everything needs to start with the hand and I also believe in the value of the human in our future. I advocate for more emotional intelligence over artificial intelligence.

Distractions to break free from Notifications on my devices. In my mind, they kill creative flow and imagination.

Three words to describe design in the past 25 years

Tentative, Materials led. Democratic.

What's new at Salone 2025

We designed the booth of Flos at the Fair, with a specific video installation. For Cassina, we present a new bookshelf in different variants, and we contribute to a celebration of 60 years since the brand began producing Le Corbusier's furniture. We collaborated with Fabio Cherstich, a theater director, to conceive a performance at "Teatro Lirico Giorgio Gaber". Last but not least, we once again worked on Prada Frames. This edition, titled "Prada Frames in Transit," explores the idea of infrastructure and movement. We also park the Arclecchino train, disigned by Gio Ponti, in front of the Palazzo reale. It's a symposium, with lectures from architects, but also scholars, activists and artists, on the idea of infrastructure and distribution and movement of things, but also of humans. The event tries to deliver real content and not only celebration of creativity, because we think we need more research based content to be shared in these occasions.

Must-see events and favorite city places

We mention Prada Frames because we truly enjoy it. For us it is a three-day full engagement in meaningful discussions and reflections. Besides that, we also enjoy seeing the presentations of design schools in Milano. It's a great opportunity to understand what students are thinking about. Our favorite place in Milano is an obvious one, but not many have seen it properly: the exhibition design by BBPR in Palazzo Sforzesco.

Design as a driving force of change

Design totally influences our behaviour: the way we dress, work, and read the world. Even the way we engage in love or sexual relationship is designed through digital media applications. Design is a pervasive discipline. It's not just about aesthetics, but also about politics and justice.

AI in Design

We are very critical. AI is an incredibly interesting development, but in the design process, it seems more focused on maximizing profit than empowering creativity. AI is in the hands of very few companies and is trained using the creative works of countless individuals. While it can be useful in research and analyzing large datasets, we should focus on its problematics and push for effective legislation.

Distractions to break free from

A major distraction we would like to eliminate in our work is the constant need to convince clients that what we are doing is right. This takes away time and energy.

Three words to describe design in the past 25 years

Commercial. Disruptive. Hopeful. Looking ahead, we hope design continues to be applied not just to creating new things but also to repairing what is broken, whether in industry, ecology, or social relationships. This is one of the most relevant design challenges of the last 25 years.

What's new at Salone 2025

Normally I present more one-off, installation-type projects at Salone, but this year, I'm actually launching products! My very first sofa with La Cividina, colored versions of the recently launched Stedelijk chair with BD Barcelona, and two very experimental products: a light made from a single extrusion of aluminum—sourced, designed, and produced all inside a 100km radius with Hydro—and a planter whose function is to encourage growing your own herbs and edible plants at home with XL extra light

Must-see events and favorite city places

Capsule Plaza at Spazio Maiocchi! This is the third year of Capsule Plaza at Salone, featuring an incredibly well-curated selection of brands presenting surprising and fresh projects.

When I'm in Milano, I always try to visit Hangar Bicocca. The sheer scale of space creates such an interesting context in which to experience art.

Design as a driving force of change

This is a very big question! Too big to answer in a meaningful way without writing a novel, but our phones, for one, have been the most impactful in reshaping our habits.

AI in Design

Research has become so much easier, which I am very much embracing. AI should for sure be used as a tool and not just a generator. Clever and good design is rooted in the understanding of materials and processes—not just creating a pretty picture.

Distractions to break free from

Writing texts about my work rather than just creating!

Three words to describe design in the past 25 years

What's new at Salone 2025

This time, we unveil three new products for Molteni&C: a compact, swiveling armchair in the continuity of our previous Lucio collection, an elegantly designed desk, and an entirely new kitchen. Among the highlights, we announce a brand-new collaboration with Zanotta, for whom we have designed a sofa system with a soft, inviting aesthetic. 2025 also marks the official launch of Flora, our collection for Fantini. Additionally, we take part in a group exhibition alongside Ronan Bouroullec for Wonderglass.

Must-see events and favorite city places

Definitely Palazzo Molteni in Via Manzoni, which we recently completed, but also Molteni&C's installation right in front of the building at Museo Poldi Pezzoli. Among my favorite places in Milano are Villa Necchi Campiglio, for its hidden location and exquisite Rationalist architecture by Piero Portaluppi; Mondadori's HQ by Oscar Niemeyer, a very monumental, organic, and fluid living sculpture; Chiesa di San Maurizio al Monastero Maggiore; 5Vie District; and Trattoria Santa Lucia, my favorite classic Milanese trattoria.

Design as a driving force of change

Design influences how we live, work, and interact, making change feel natural. It should enhance our awareness and the way we want to live. Design must have a positive impact on our minds—more sensorial and human, as opposed to design that creates restlessness and clutter.

AI in Design

Artificial intelligence is now an integral part of our lives, and we have to embrace it. Personally, when it comes to the creative process, I always rely on my intuition. And it will take away what is humane out of our discipline and field.

Distractions to break free from

All the digital stimuli and distractions, like phone, chats, and emails. I am craving being more grounded with my pieds nus, more connected with nature.

Three words to describe design in the past 25 years

Added emotions (awareness, consciousness, new seduction, surprise, poetry), revamped craftsmanship and implemented technology in many design processes.

What's new at Salone 2025

This year we introduce a light collection or Cassina, a bed for Gervasoni, a number of objects for Nilufar, and a battery light for Moorgen.

Must-see events and favorite city places

Brera. What renders Brera particularly compelling is its intricate relationship to the city itself—a site where the interplay of old and new unfolds in a continuous dialogue. We also recommend visiting the Sforza Castle and the Ospedale Maggiore, which represent quintessential embodiments of Renaissance ideals, while Corso Milano by Luigi Moretti and the Torre Velasca by BBPR reflect the complexities of post-war Italian architecture.

Design as a driving force of change

Design, for us, transcends the creation of functional or aesthetically pleasing objects; it is a potent instrument of social change and cultural expression. In an era dominated by the digital revolution, where social platforms increasingly shape human experience, the importance of physical space has never been more critical. This tension between the physical and the digital demands greater sensitivity, responsibility, and inventiveness, pushing us to create spaces that are not only functional but also deeply expressive. Architecture becomes a cultural force, mediating between the tangible and the intangible, the past and the future, the individual and the collective.

AI in Design

Humans, with their capacity for critical thinking and radical innovation, remain essential for questioning the past and driving paradigm shifts. As AI's influence expands, it will demand greater precision and intentionality in design decisions, compelling architects to articulate their core values and redefine what constitutes meaningful output.

Distractions to break free from

We seek to liberate ourselves from the compulsion to design everything. The ease with which we can generate beautiful, convincing drawings risks overshadowing the deeper intellectual and ethical considerations that should underpin our practice.

What should not be missing in your studio

Design is an inherently responsible act, demanding a continuous interrogation of meaning and purpose in everything we create. Research, therefore, becomes indispensable, not merely as a supplementary tool but as a critical mechanism that challenges and redefines the design process itself. In this way, design becomes not just a practice of making but a mode of inquiry, rooted in architecture yet expansive in its reach and implications.

Introducing
FLEXFABRIC® by Sixinch
Innovation Meets Sustainability

Sixinch is proud to present FLEXFABRIC®, a groundbreaking flexible PU coating that redefines surface finishes. This innovative material combines flexibility, durability, and sustainability by incorporating a finished layer made from recycled fabrics, including denim, cotton, and other textiles. Designed for both aesthetic appeal and high-performance functionality, FLEXFABRIC® transforms waste into a premium coating solution, offering a unique tactile experience with an eco-conscious edge.

Discover Aria, the new interior project of Archiproducts Milano curated by Studiopepe.

Air is the spirit that breathes life into us and engages the world that surrounds us. Aria is an exploration of design where matter becomes a medium for connection through layering, movement, and light. By incorporating iridescence, pastels, and kinetic energy, the project transforms materials into a multi-sensory journey, highlighting how the interaction of form and light can connect spaces, people, and ideas.

Where performance and beauty move as one

DISCOVER MORE
robertoriccidesigns.com

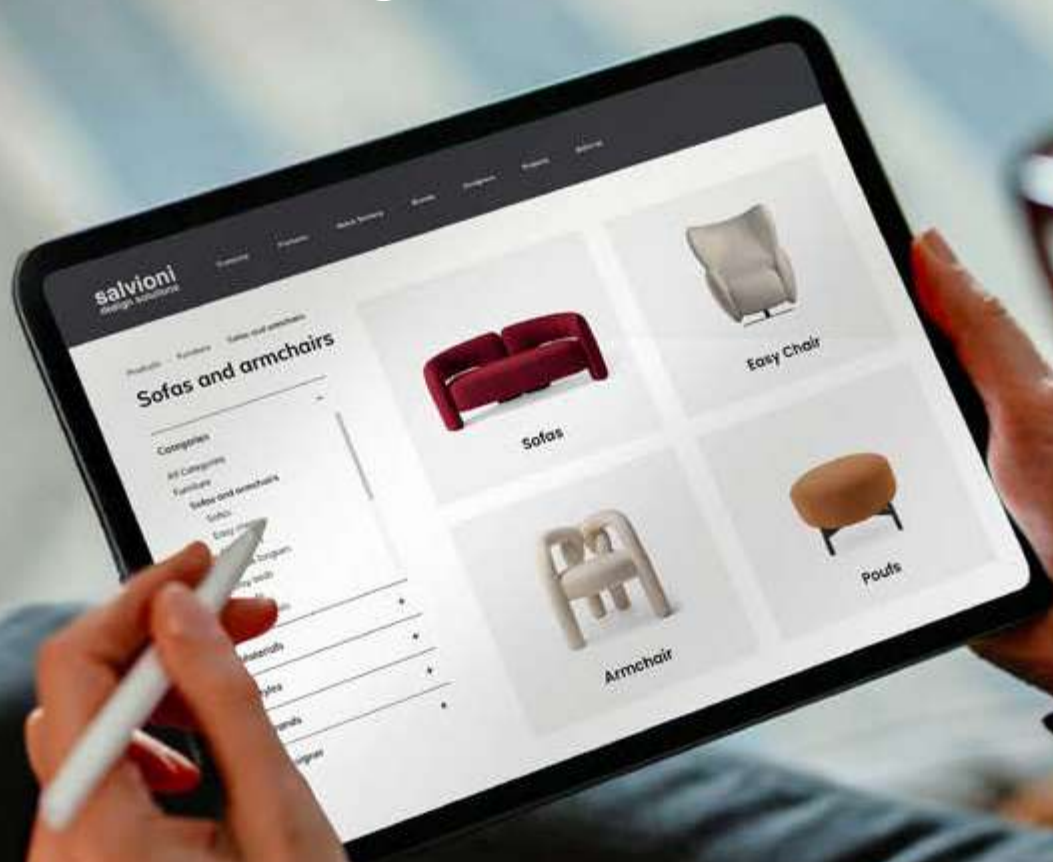

Born in 2005 from the bold vision of Roberto Ricci, RRD emerged where the timeless allure of the Mediterranean meets the untamed spirit of the ocean. Inspired by the “friendly” sea that nurtures creativity and the performance-driven waves that challenge limits, RRD was shaped by people who live the water—surfers, shapers, and innovators who turned their passion into a brand.

Rooted in the heritage of Made in Italy, every RRD creation is a fusion of international expertise and artisanal excellence. The revolutionary integration of Lycra technology redefined performance wear, transforming traditional silhouettes into dynamic expressions of movement and resilience, echoing RRD’s relentless pursuit of innovation, freedom, and perfection.

At Archiproducts, we are both honored and excited to collaborate with a brand that embodies this extraordinary fusion of nature, technology, and style. Together, we celebrate the power of design to elevate experiences, shaping a world where performance and beauty move as one.

Nine selected brands defining design as a mission

Antigua

by Federica Biasi

Federica Biasi
Ph Giovanni Gastel

Antigua draws inspiration from the waves of the sea. The generous dimensions and soft lines of this sofa create a welcoming and dynamic design, which conveys a sense of lightness and spontaneity. Versatile and authentic, it fits into heterogeneous contexts, conceived for outdoor environments.

Nalu

by Palomba Serafini Associati

Palomba Serafini Associati

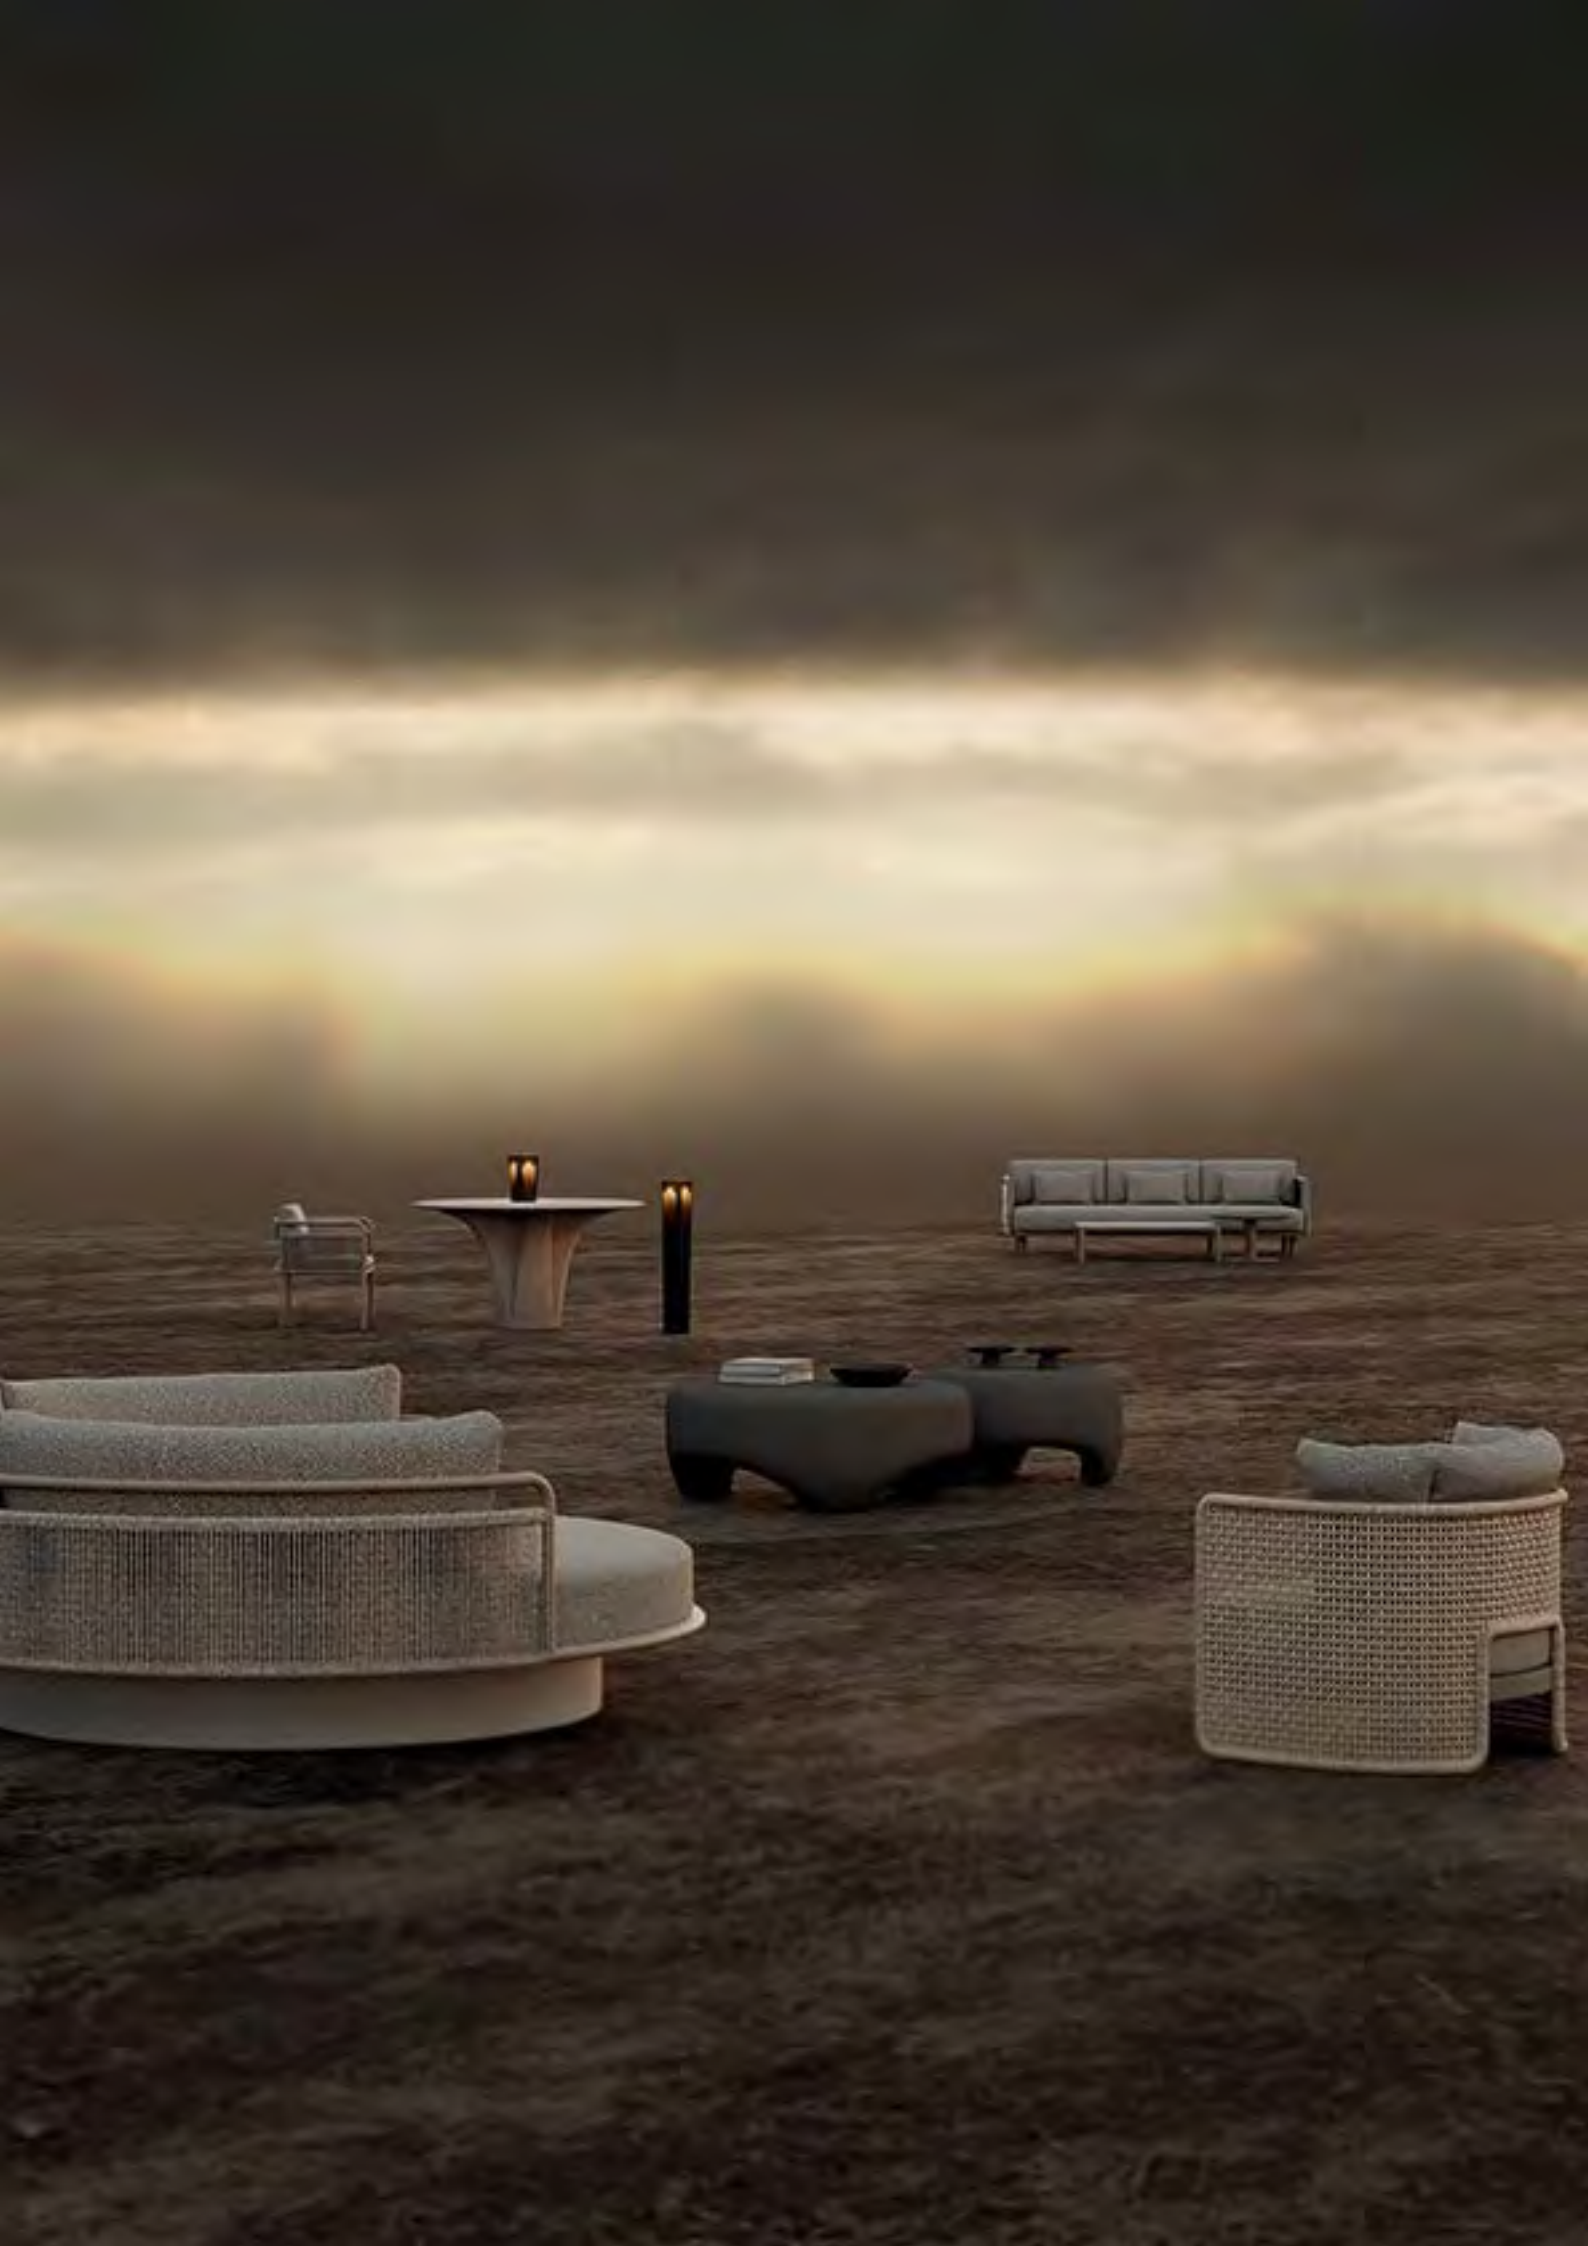

Ph Enrico Costantini

Nalu is a garden sofa with an aluminum structure. Of Hawaiian origin, its name means “wave”, a term rich in charm and significance. Inspired by the golden years of Italian design, its unique cushion folds, generating the seat and back like a kind of wave. Light and suspended, the sofa encloses a multi-chromatic shell in constant movement, almost hypnotic.

Link

by Junpei & Iori Tamaki

The Link collection plays with contrast, balancing simplicity and distinctive features. In its central pieces, such as chairs and sofas, the design emphasizes the interplay between rope-wrapped elements and those without, set against a simple frame structure. This contrast creates a beauty in the blend of roughness and refinement. Though differing in form, each piece maintains a sense of connection throughout the collection.

Allover

by Mauro Lipparini

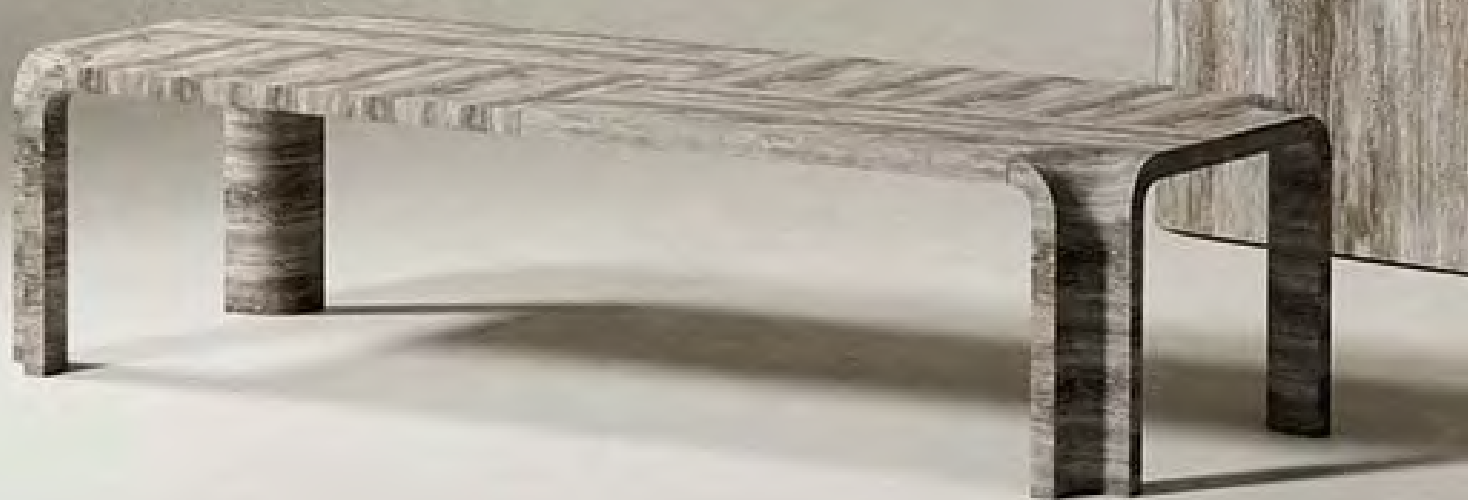

Mauro Lipparini

Conceived with a “total look” like that of fashion’s most renowned lines, the Allover collection of loose furniture pieces speaks a language both powerfully consistent and compellingly of-the-moment. Each year, Allover offers new and updated pieces with a strong aesthetic and a distinct functional role in the domestic realm—in sum, true purpose. And all working harmoniously with those that have come before.

Ruwa

by Luca Erba

The Ruwa table and coffee table draw inspiration from the archetypes of African vernacular architecture, reinterpreting the original organic and monomaterial forms into contemporary pieces. It is a minimalist yet complex design, rich in detail, much like traditional buildings that embody ancient experiences and traditions.

by Raffaello Galiotto

Merging design and sustainability, MAXIMO is a modular sofa with a regenerated resin frame and fabrics made from recycled materials, allowing countless configurations quickly and easily. Its balanced lines extend horizontally, conveying a sense of depth and length, while the solid resin frame appears light with modular triangular sections and rounded details.

Curvi

by Domenico Direnzo

Domenico Direnzo

Curvi is a transverse sofa bed with a synchronized opening mechanism. The mattress is positioned perpendicular to the backrest instead of parallel. Its wooden frame and memory foam padding ensure comfort and durability. Soft, flowing lines, minimal stitching, and a 100% removable elastic cover add practicality and value.

Limetry

by Alessandro Zambelli

Limetry represents a novel interpretation of a system for various configurations with a decorative approach, combining ambient lighting with functional spotlights that generate a harmonious, delicate effect in the surrounding spaces. Elegance and flair are the characteristics of Limetry, which has been created to meet the needs of users thanks to its multiple configuration possibilities.

Loja

by Sebastian Herkner

LOJA is a series of luminaires driven by an interest in sculptural statements with a sustainable approach. The collection celebrates geometric simplicity through its lightness, rigor, and directness. The adjustable lampshade, with its distinct and expressive form, allows an atmospheric interplay of direct and indirect lighting, adding an emotional dimension to the design.
